CHAPTER 1. Loomings.

Call me Ishmael. Some years ago, never mind how long precisely, having little or no money in my purse, and nothing particular to interest me on shore, I thought I would sail about a little and see the watery part of the world.

It is a way I have of driving off the spleen, and regulating the circulation.

CHAPTER 2. The Carpet-Bag.

I stuffed a shirt or two into my carpet-bag, tucked it under my arm, and started for Cape Horn and the Pacific.

Continued text flows across the page break without a new indent, and so must join the paragraph on the page before.

And so this small book ends where it began.
